TREE AT TAKOMA PARK
STRUCK TWICE SAME DAY

Victims Viewing Damage Done by First Bolt When Tree Is Struck a Second Time.

While viewing the damage which had been done by a bolt of lightning a few minutes before, Augustin J. S. Bourdeau, member of the editorial staff of the Review and Herald Publishing Association and a Seventh-Day Adventist of note, and Edwin Julius Andrews, fifteen-year-old son of Charles M. Andrews, also of the publishing association, were instantly killed yesterday afternoon, when a second bolt of lightning struck an oak tree standing in the garden before the administration building of the Seventh-Day Adventist group at Takoma Park, Md. Marguerite Bourdeau, nine-year-old daughter of the man who was killed, was severely burned and rendered unconscious by the bolt. She was removed to the Washington Sanatorium at Takoma, where she quickly revived. Her condition is not serious, it is stated.

Out of a Clear Sky.

The second bolt of lightning came from out of a clear sky, the severe storm of yesterday afternoon having subsided a few minutes before. The first bolt struck the tree while the storm was at its height. It cut off a strip of bark of the trunk of the tree from its topmost point to its base, where the bolt entered the ground. The second bolt tore off a second strip of bark extending the length of the tree.

Less than a half a minute before the second bolt struck the tree, Elder A. G. Daniels, president of the General Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, and the world president of the Adventist Church, C. M. Snow, associate editor of the Record and Herald Publishing Association, the publishing organization of the Adventist Church, E. B. Bowen, assistant secretary of the foreign mission board, and L. A. Hansen, assistant secretary of the medical department, had examined the damage done by the first bolt. They had just walked from the tree to the steps of the administration building, less than sixty feet away, when the second bolt struck.

Takoma Park Storm Center.

The tree under which Mr. Bourdeau and Edwin Andrews lost their lives is a medium-sized pin oak, which stands in the triangular shaped parking in front of the administration building and the steps of the building. The tree stands in the center of a circle about thirty feet in diameter, formed by concrete walks, which lead to the other walks in the park connect.

The storm which swept over the city Friday before last, which followed noon was particularly severe in the neighborhood of Takoma Park. There were reports of a number of lightning bolts and the thunder which followed was almost deafening.

While the storm was at its height, the tree was struck, and the lawn for some distance around was showered with bits of bark that were torn from the bolt. When the storm subsided and the rain stopped members of the clerical and mechanical forces of the printing association and of the administrative force of the general conference of the Seventh-day Adventist denomination, whose offices are in the building adjoining, walked over to the lawn to view the damage which had been done. While there they were joined by Prof. Bourdeau and his daughter and Edwin Andrews. The Bourdeau home is at 117 Willow avenue, less than a square north of the clerical buildings. The home of Charles M. Andrews, father of the boy who was killed, is at 116 Willow avenue, just across the street from that of the Bourdeaus. All three had been at their homes, while the storm was in progress.

Cleared, Following Storm.

When they reached the parking in front of the Adventist buildings the sky was clear and the sun was shining. All three were standing at a short distance from the tree when the second bolt struck. Prof. Bourdeau was standing about six feet from the tree looking up into its branches. The Andrews boy was about the same distance from the trees, but on the opposite side from Prof. Bourdeau. Marguerite Bourdeau was standing near the circular walkway, and was more than ten feet from the tree.

Elder Daniels, and Messrs. Snow, Bowen and Hansen were standing on the steps of the administration building, discussing the damage which had been done by the storm. With them also was W. L. Burkan, publicity agent of the publishing association. Without warning of any kind there came a blinding flash and with it a deafening clap of thunder. Those on the steps of the building saw Prof. Bourdeau and the two children struck to the ground, where they lay motionless.

Probably Killed Instantly.

They immediately rushed to the assistance of the stricken ones. Prof. Bourdeau and Edwin Andrews appeared to be dead. Though severely burned, Marguerite Bourdeau was still alive. Medical assistance was summoned, and in a few minutes Dr. H. W. Miller, medical superintendent of the Washington Sanatorium, which is conducted by the Adventists at Takoma Park, Dr. George W. Heald, who was in the publishing association's building at the time the second bolt struck the tree, and Dr. Alfred V. Parsons, who lives but a short distance away, were on the scene. The physicians were of the opinion Prof. Bourdeau and Edwin Andrews had been killed instantly by the lightning flash.

Girl's Injuries Not Serious.

Investigation showed that Marguerite Bourdeau had been burned about the left temple and left hand and that she was suffering from severe shock. She regained consciousness before being removed to the Washington Sanatorium. It was stated today at the Bourdeau home that Marguerite Bourdeau will remain at the Washington Sanatorium for several days yet, although she is not in a serious condition. It is believed the burn on her temple will not leave a scar and that she will not be disfigured.

An examination showed that Prof. Bourdeau had been burned from the top of his head to the soles of his feet and that the Andrews boy had suffered likewise. The bolt of lightning in leaving their bodies and entering the ground had burned the soles of their shoes to a crisp. A gold watch carried by Prof. Bourdeau was uninjured by the flash, and was running on correct time when examined more than an hour after the bolt had struck.

Was Native of Vermont.

Augustin J. S. Bourdeau was forty years old, and was a native of Burke, Vt. He took the A. M. degree at Battle Creek (Mich.) College, the denominational educational institution of the Seventh-day Adventists. He was graduated in the class of 1895. He came to Washington six years ago last February from Mountain View, Cal., where he had been connected with the big publishing house of the church lo-

PARCEL POST ZONE RULING.

Distance Traveled and Not Air Line to Govern.

Postmaster General Burleson has modified the parcel post regulations so that travel distance and not the distance in a straight line shall determine the zone to which a parcel is to be sent. This was done, it is explained, to meet cases where two offices but short air-line distances apart are very much farther apart when measured by the actual distance to be traveled in reaching one from the other. It is said that no big cities, and but a few of the small towns, will be affected by the change.

QUITS MEXICO CITY TO FIGHT VILLISTAS

where the Carranza forces have been forced to evacuate Mexico City to meet Gen. Villa's southern column approaching the city.

The report says that the second lot of supplies, comprising corn and lime for the United States Smelting Company, at Pachuca, where there are estimated to be 20,000 people, is on the way from Vera Cruz, having left there Friday, in charge of "a special reliable American conductor." There is no telegraphic communication, the dispatch stated, between Vera Cruz and Pachuca.

J. C. Weller, Red Cross agent, was expected to leave Piedras Negras, opposite Eagle Pass, today to take to Monclova the two carloads of corn and beans which were forced back some days ago by the fighting at Barroteran.

No Food at Monclova.

Word reached here today that the railroad was open and there was no food obtainable at Monclova.

The Chinese legation asked the American Red Cross today to have $2,000 worth of supplies of food sent through to the Chinese residents in Mexico City. This was upon request of the Chinese charge d'affaires at Mexico, who said the Chinese were in need.

The request will be complied with at the Chinese government's expense as soon as it is possible to ship relief supplies into Mexico City, which railroad interruption now prevents.

Carloads Awaiting Open Line.

There are five carloads of corn held up today at New Orleans and another carload at Galveston awaiting word from Carranza out of Nogales. Some fighting occurred, but there was no heavy loss of life before the city was evacuated by Villa troops.

A large smelting company sent eighteen carloads of bullion into the United States here today, making a total of forty-two cars this week.

FOOD DISTRIBUTION ENDS.

Supplies at Monterey Are Ample, But Prices Remain High.

LAREDO, Tex., July 20.—Distribution of Red Cross relief funds at Monterey ended Saturday. Passengers arriving here reported food supplies there ample, but prices high.

Adequate Provision for Order.

"The movement in force out of Mexico City, under the command of Gen. Pablo Gonzalez himself, has been projected for several days," said Eliseo Arrendondo, confidential agent of the constitutional government in Washington today. "Gen. Gonzalez's forces have left the capital to meet and destroy the forces of the Villistas."

"Adequate provision for the preservation of order in Mexico City has been made, and immediately the present operation is completed, which should prevent any further advance of the military force will return to Mexico City, where Gen. Gonzalez will re-establish headquarters."

The Carranza agency this morning received from the constitutional government of Mexico, under the command of Gen. Pablo Gonzalez, a communication of the capture of Naco, on the international boundary. The dispatch recites that there was only light fighting last night but a few minutes in the streets of the town, and that the attacking force so arranged the advance as to prevent any further advance of the border. There was no molestation of American property and no Americans were either killed or wounded.

THREE TOWNS OCCUPIED BY CARRANZA'S TROOPS

Now Control Strip of Country 150
Miles Long of Mochizuma District of Sonora.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., July 20.—Nacozari, Cusam and Pinar, three important towns of the Mochizuma district of Sonora, have been occupied by Carranza troops, according to reports received at Agua Prieta today.

This gives the Carranza forces under Gen. P. Elias Calles control of a strip of country 150 miles long, including seventy miles of the Nacozari railroad, which was being prepared to handle shipments of concentrates from Nacozari, El Tigre and other mining camps.

Gen. Calles himself telegraphed today news of another victory over Villa forces at Villa Verde, and notified his representatives here that he would continue on to Nogales, headquarters of Jose Maytorena, Villa governor, and lay siege to that place.

Plan to Occupy Cananea.

Calles' representatives here said their chief planned to occupy Cananea, where large American mining interests are centered, before next Sunday.

In the meantime he hoped to drive Villa's forces out of Nogales. He will then have control of the chief Sonora border points—Agua Prieta, Naco and Nogales.

Carranza Takes San Luis Potosi.

LAREDO, Tex., July 20.—Tampico advices today confirmed the taking of San Luis Potosi by Carranza forces under Gen. Novoa. Some fighting occurred, but there was no heavy loss of life before the city was evacuated by Villa troops.

A large smelting company sent eighteen carloads of bullion into the United States here today, making a total of forty-two cars this week.

WARNS OF TAX PENALTY.

Deputy Revenue Collector Says August 1 Is Dead Line.

Proprietors of theaters, public exhibition places, commercial brokers, owners of bowling alleys, pool and billiard parlors, commission merchants, tobacco shops, keepers of retail liquor stores and all persons who handle opiates, which includes physicians and druggists, who have not paid their special revenue tax created under the emergency act of 1914 will have to pay a penalty if the same is not received at the internal revenue office, 713 G street northwest, before August 1, according to Deputy Collector S. E. Perkins.

This tax was due July 1, and it is the opinion of Deputy Collector Perkins, in charge of the local office, that many are not aware of the fact that Uncle Sam will place a penalty on their bill if they do not pay up before the last of the coming month.

Thomas F. Farnham, former marshal of police of Baltimore, died at his home there of intestinal hemorrhage. He was born there March 12, 1846.
